GMA can't name Sandigan chief

By Dora L. Pineda

WHILE THE SUPREME COURT GAVE HER THE green light to appoint the next Chief Justice, President Marcos-Arroyo cannot name a new Sandiganbayan presiding justice or fill up other vacancies in the judiciary outside of the high court.

This is the prevailing view of the high court that recently ruled that the constitutional ban against presidential re-election applies to presidential appointees occupying vacancies in the Sandiganbayan, trial courts and other positions in the judiciary.

The Sandiganbayan is the highest court in the Philippines. President Arroyo cannot fill up vacancies in the Sandiganbayan, trial courts and other positions in the judiciary.

My former superior learned from appointing a successor to the late Sandiganbayan Presiding Justice Norberto Ovalina who died of cancer last April 4.

Following order issued

San Jose did not receive a 1998 decision nullifying his appointment as the outgoing Presiding Justice of the Sandiganbayan.

The 1998 decision said that the President was not allowed to appoint anyone to the Sandiganbayan in the year following the two months before the next presidential election and up to the end of the term.

The March 17 decision said that the President was not allowed to appoint anyone to the Sandiganbayan in the year following the two months before the next presidential election and up to the end of the term.

The March 17 decision said that the President was not allowed to appoint anyone to the Sandiganbayan in the year following the two months before the next presidential election and up to the end of the term.

There is no justification for the President to appoint anyone to the Sandiganbayan in the year following the two months before the next presidential election and up to the end of the term.

OUTRAGE OF VICTIMS

Victims of the 2009 Philippine earthquake are outraged at the decision of the Department of Justice to appoint a new Sandiganbayan Presiding Justice.

PHILIPPINE JUDGES ASSOCIATION

MANIFESTO OF SUPPORT TO HONORABLE MA. THERESA L. DE LA TORRE-YADAO RTC, BRANCH 81, QUEZON CITY

WHEREAS, the Department of Justice promulgated a Resolution on March 1, 2012 against Hon. Presiding Judge Ma. Theresa L. De La Torre-Yadao, Regional Trial Court, Branch 81, Quezon City, the disciplinary portion of which reads as follows:

"WHEREFORE, premises considered, the assailed resolutions of Stone Prosecutor Juan Pedro C. Navera, at Atty. City Prosecutor of Quezon City, dated September 17, 2009 and February 17, 2012 are hereby REVERSED and SET ASIDE. The Court State Prosecutor of the City Prosecutor of Quezon City is hereby directed to file an information against respondents for violation of Article 254 of the Revised Penal Code, and to report the action taken therein within ten (10) days from receipt thereof."

Xox xxx xxx

WHEREAS, the chronological events that led to the issuance of the aforementioned Resolution are as follows:

- (1) Judge Yadao, after that convicted Representative Jose Vilanova of two (2) counts of Murder in Criminal Cases Nos. Q-98-75633 and Q-98-75634 in a Decision promulgated on February 3, 2006.
- (2) Upon appeal, the Court of Appeals acquitted Vilanova and thereafter, said acquitted filed a criminal complaint against Judge Yadao for Knowingly Rendering Unjust Judgments with the Department of Justice.
- (3) DOJ State Prosecutor Juan Pedro Navera dismissed the complaint on September 17, 2009, and likewise denied the motion for reconsideration on February 17, 2012.

WHEREAS, unknown to Judge Yadao, Vilanova on February 25, 2010, petitioned Justice Secretary Aguirre Desamante for a review of the dismissal, that it was only on March 11, 2010 that Judge Yadao discovered that Desamante had reviewed the resolution of dismissal and recommended that he criminal indictment in a Resolution dated March 1, 2010.

WHEREAS, such indictment of a Judge on account of a decision rendered after trial produces a chilling effect on the entire trial court judges, and is in effect a sword of Damocles hanging over the heads of trial judges across the country.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, AS IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, that the Philippine Judges Association has agreed to all support to Judge Theresa Yadao of Branch 81, RTC, Quezon City, and call upon the Office of the Court Administrator to pursue all courses of action possible to put an end to this anomaly.

DONE in the City of Taguig, Philippines, this 26th day of March, 2012.

The Women Who Love Endermologie

Thousands of women have experienced results from Endermologie. Like them, you too can have a sexy body to flaunt and the confidence to strut all the time!

"Endermologie is one of my favorite treatments. Before last I just did diet and exercise to get rid of the fat I gained during my pregnancy. But the trapped fat wasn't going away. Endermologie helped me eliminate the fat without any diet or exercise. I even lost 10 lbs! I would love to do it every week, but you know, life gets in the way!"

Caroline Aguilar

"My thighs and legs looking for pure cellulite when I gained weight. I didn't have to go to the gym, I just had to go to Endermologie. It didn't look good and I was so self-conscious. But in just a few sessions of Endermologie, 20% of my cellulite was gone! My thighs and legs look much, much better now. Now confident in all whatever I wear!"

Rosemarie Alyson

"In 1990, I've noticed cellulite on some parts of my body. My thighs and lower part of my tummy looked so bad. I was so self-conscious. So I tried Endermologie. It targets the fat after the treatment! Now my thighs are slimmer and my tummy flat again. People say, 'Wow, your thighs are so thin, your butt is so flat!'"

Carol Marie

"I used to have to lose my entire pounds. For my thighs and butt area - made me so self-conscious. When I had a date with my husband, people say 'You're looking great!' So I tried Endermologie. My cellulite and skin were so smooth. My thighs were so thin, my butt was so flat. For a date, better and more way of losing fat - I definitely recommend Endermologie!"

MEAGANS HAS OFFERED THEM that Minneapolis-based's appointment of her minister to the board of the Big Big Fund, saying that she only "wanted to make sure that poor government employees were represented by one of their own" on the board of the government's home financing agency.

Deputy presidential spokesman Gary Ellis said in a briefing that, "By this, all we can build, and so be told by a representative of government employees, hence, the was 'opposite side' to the President's constituent Anne Lagoon who is employed by the government and not by the Agency personally."

The Pay-By-Invest-Of-Interest is composed of the chair of the Housing and Urban Development Coordinating Council, the Finance, Budget, Labor and Trade Secretaries, the CEO of HUD, two representatives each of private employers and private employees, and a representative of government employees.

Wanda's judgement

Responding to critics who said the President wanted his people to place in the government what he saw as the steps down in June, Obama said the public should want to know about Carpin's background instead of looking to judge him.

"It's not correct to question someone just because he or she has a position in life. But it's certainly reasonable to ask for more information about their credentials. The same is true with the gardener," he said.

Mr. Newkirk also appointed the Fellow-governors, Armando Hargreaves, as a deputy in the Laucha Park Wilderness. He is not related to the President, Officer added.

Olney said that from 2000 to 2010, the number of senior government positions held by career executives outside efforts increased from one-third to one-half of the bureaucracy.

The President can't be accused of degrading standards of government performance in a matter of principle based on these appointments because the rest of the Liberal Party (JP) senatorial candidate in Manila, Ruychika yesterday said the appointment would be the fundamental problem with the Abeno administration.

The law always treated the government as her personal father," Bayart said.

"There is one other, appointing power and that is the intelligence of the Filipino... what this government should claim is the maximum autonomy," Aquino said.

Formerly an Islamic Hipster (IHF) who practiced clandestine Ayatollah C. Kruyism, Kh. Amery's "insidious appearance of two-partite" is truly controversial: one just just but notion of a "locally-relevant program" but her guarantee that inquiry were conducted in such with government training after she was given Peace Medal status.

"I do not know what being without the mail does for me, but I am sure that a F202 letterhead would be in good hands if the person who's mailing her hands were that of an individual here," Brown said.

We conclude that the...

THERE WILL BE NO MILITARY JUDGE TRIAL over the government's alleged role in a series of killings in the 1970s, Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) chief of staff Gen. Fidel V. Ramos said today.

In a roundtable conference with the top brass of Volkswagen Design said a similar name would be "suitable" and that it was never on the "list of things to do" by the milliner under his leadership.

"To you, who are with me in our stand for the Constitution, to you who are with me in our stand against a revolutionary government in a house, let's begin," Reagan told the AFP's major news transmission network officers.

Earlier, former "Boy" Lapras of the Coast Guard of the Philippine Affairs Group had claimed that Defense Secretary Brooke P. Martinez was pressuring the military for a possible return of the Corps.

In an interview with Newsday conducted

Sanjo explained that Gonzalez had been invited by the Philippine Army to speak at a forum attended by commanders in man, including the Department of National Defense, particularly the "new generation."

"It doesn't necessarily mean that he's dropping his support [for policies]," Bergin told reporters after attending a day-long conference with the Philippine National Police and Commission on Elections at Camp Crame yesterday.

Davao outages, Davao folk pay more for power

DAVAO CITY—BUSINESSMANS, who have been complaining of excessive losses due to the daily six-hour outages in Davao del Sur, are experiencing a bowl of protest items.

On Wednesday, the Davao del Sur Electric Cooperative (Daseco) announced that it was increasing power rates by about P1.50 per kilowatt hour to the province, which has a population of 2.5 million.

Jose del Valiente, Davao del Sur Electric Cooperative president, explained that the increase was not a decision of the cooperative, but was ordered by National Grid Corp. of the Philippines (NGCP), a private company which took over power distribution from the National Power Corp. "We are not going to profit from this increase because it will directly go to the NGCP," Dela Valiente said. "We will just cover up if we did not implement the increase because NGCP will tell us to stop."

The increase, from P7.67 per kWh to P9.17 per kWh, was reflected on the account of some members during payment.

Dela Valiente and the new charge was actually a protest item.

A businessman said increasing rates at the time the outlet was being restored could force small business to close shop.

"Many businesses dependent on electricity have already lost nearly 50 percent of their revenues. Owners had to pay rentals, taxes and labor costs with the increase. Do you think they can still survive?" a wealthy shop owner said.

Jose del Valiente, a businessman, said the increase was allowed because the power agencies were directly involved.

"What should we do now?" he asked. "We are paying higher despite the long period of restoration," he said.

Power industry officials blamed the outages on the sharp decline in water levels in hydroelectric power sources in Mindanao as a result of the El Niño phenomenon. Despite the said explanation with hydroelectric power sources, however, some officials of the government and some hydroelectric power plants were likely to be built in Mindanao.

Some electric companies have defined an order by NGCP to implement measures despite the companies' arguing on the ground of cost of electricity that were not allowed by the El Niño phenomenon. At the Davao Electric Cooperative, Atienza del Sur, Davao del Sur

Ecija harvest good, but farmers complain

COMINTAN CITY—RICE IN Surigao del Norte is plentiful but farmers are complaining the low buying price of paddy and the supposed collection between rice mill owners and traders is further lowering prices down.

Isabelita Salinas, provincial agriculture officer, said the buying price offered by traders has gone down to P11.30 to P13.50 a kilogram, from P14.50 kg at the start of the harvest season.

He said while the volume of harvest for hybrid rice is good, it is not as good as the previous season. Hybrid rice is planted more than regular rice, but the yield is lower compared to the latter. Hybrid rice is planted more than regular rice, but the yield is lower compared to the latter.

He said the harvest for hybrid rice was less than 1.50 and 2.00 percent of rice per hectare. The volume for regular variety, on the other hand, is around 3.00 percent.

Price manipulation. Salinas said rice traders could be behind the sudden drop in the buying price of paddy.

He said since many traders had low harvest because of the shortage of the El Niño phenomenon, the price of rice would be low. He said since many traders had low harvest because of the shortage of the El Niño phenomenon, the price of rice would be low.

Salinas said he asked officials of the National Food Authority (NFA) in the province to buy the farmers' harvest.

to quality of the state of his district. Villanueva urged the media to rely on a press statement issued by Vista Land early in the day.

"The company has already issued a press release on this, and they completely answered all the issues raised," said Villanueva.

He then challenged Villanueva and his camp to bring the issue to the proper forum. "I must be really offering by this kind of story that we are doing this," he said.

Refused issue

Villanueva said that the allegations have been answered directly by Vista Land, which is a public company owned by thousands of shareholders—many of them his supporters—and they are the ones who will answer this issue.

He reminded the media that this was exactly what he stated when he filed, at the end of the campaign, a complaint with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to force Vista Land to disclose all its stock on its website.

Throughout the campaign, Villanueva has held back his promises, but his endorsement was on the grounds of his belief in Villanueva and his belief in the Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE) Board in June 2007.

In a statement, however, he said that he was not endorsing Villanueva and his camp to bring the issue to the proper forum. "I must be really offering by this kind of story that we are doing this," he said.

Belgium, France set to ban wearing of full Islamic veil

BRUSSELS—BELGIUM MAY SET on Thursday to sign a law on wearing the Muslim headscarf in public, the first such legislation in Europe, just a day after the French government passed a similar law.

But a political crisis threatening the Belgian government and objections from France's constitutional watchdog mean the controversial measure might not make it into law.

Belgium's parliament was to vote on the law after it passed after extensive consultation with a wide range of stakeholders, including the full-time judges and lawyers.

Like both the governing parties and the opposition, the law is expected to pass the parliament. Belgium's role is expected to precede the draft law.

It would affect tens of 15-20 million (2009) and a few million of up to seven million.

For anyone wearing a headscarf, the law will give permission to wear it in public.

But a party is expected to pull out of the ruling coalition between the Flemish and Dutch language communities, possibly forcing a new election.

And that means that the draft legislation is not yet in force.

The Flemish government said on Wednesday it would introduce legislation from Tuesday to ban wearing a public display of a religious symbol that is a headscarf or a headscarf.

The opposition for President Nicolas Kluyskens' government said it would be prepared to maintain the law and would not to ban wearing a headscarf in public places, shops and markets and on public transport buildings.

More than 100,000 women in Belgium wear the headscarf, and almost the world, in most a full veil, but the headscarf, which covers the face, is worn by the eyes, so it is not a full veil.

The law, which is not yet in force, will be a ban on wearing a headscarf in public places, shops and markets and on public transport buildings.

"We're fighting for the future," government spokesman Jan Quirijns told reporters in a Cabinet meeting closed to the public.

"Wearing a full veil is a sign of a community that is not open to a rejection of its own identity," he added.

Last month, however, the Flemish government's top spokesman said it would not ban wearing a headscarf in public places.

"It is expected that the law will be passed in the next few days," he said.

In France, the law is expected to be passed in the next few days.

Mexico's top clergyman hit again by priest abuse lawsuit

MEXICO CITY—MEXICO'S TOP CLERGYMAN is accused in a new lawsuit of covering up decades of sexual abuse by a Roman Catholic priest and concealing it from the Mexican government and the United States and Mexico in 2004.

The case, filed on Tuesday in a California court, is the latest in a series of lawsuits against the Catholic Church in Mexico, which has been accused of covering up decades of sexual abuse by a Roman Catholic priest and concealing it from the Mexican government and the United States and Mexico in 2004.

In the latest case against the Catholic Church, the lawsuit claims that the Catholic Church in Mexico knew about the priest's history of abuse and protected his position.

2010/G-Tour

Globe President and CEO Ernest Cu, Jr. swinging a golf club on the course.

Last April 5, Globe Business hosted the G-Tour 2010 at The Orchard Golf and Country Club in Dasmariñas, Cavite. The tournament brought together Globe Business executives and their enterprise clients for a day of sport, spirited diversion and friendly competition.

Already on its fourth year, the G-Tour is considered one of the most awaited golf events in the business community. Welcoming everyone to the tournament was Globe President and CEO, Mr. Ernest Cu. During his opening remarks, Mr. Cu expressed his appreciation for the friendship and partnership that the participants have maintained with Globe over the years.

The tournament kicked off at 8:30 am in Orchard's Player Course. Golf enthusiasts from various industries such as manufacturing, financial services, IT, retail, pharmaceutical and O&G, showcased their best drives, pitches and putts under a modified version of the 1-2-3 Best Ball format. Under this system, the highest score among the four players counted as the team score for the first hole, the two middle scores were used for the second hole, while the three highest scores were counted for the third hole. The cycle then repeats for the rest of the holes.

In the end, Jimmy Camacho of Morates, Renato Erisio of PLGC-Fluor Glens, Ariel Gutierrez of Winner Hubert and Ric Padua of Bayer Philippines bested 129 golfers and were named tournament champions. As winners, they each received trophies and gift certificates.

Adding more excitement to G-Tour 2010, fantastic prizes were raffled off to lucky participants. Among the major prizes were high-end mobile phones, PING G10 Iron Sets, PING Customized Iron Sets and a brand new Club Car golf cart.

From Shell Shared Services Asia Pk, Mr. Noel Paraso has been attending the golf tournament for the last five years. When asked about his thoughts on this year's event, he said, "This tournament is especially exciting because of the new game format. It was all about team effort this time around. Also, the format was a great way of keeping all the players involved in the tale of their teams."

Globe Business Head, Mr. Gil Genio, also expressed his gratitude to the golfers for making the tournament a huge success. "The G-Tour epitomizes how much we love being in the company of our customers," said Mr. Genio. "We want to share great experiences with our clients, not only in the way we service their businesses but during events like this as well."

Mr. Jesus Romero, Enterprise Segments Head, likewise conveyed his appreciation to all who contributed to the well-attended event. "We look forward to another successful G-Tour with more friends, partners and participants to make the tournament even more exciting in 2011," said Mr. Romero.

Target sectors: Social services, agriculture, environment

By Rosal P. Domingo

THE GOVERNMENT IS IN TALKS WITH THE ASIAN DEVELOPMENT Bank on $1.06-billion worth of project financing for 2010, according to officials at the National Economic and Development Authority.

Jonathan L. Uy, director of the bank's public investment staff, said in an interview that the package covered new program loans and free investment loans.

Roberto C. Tingsopol, ADB deputy director general, said discussions so far touched on improving business processes.

"We are aiming for projects that will provide better efficiency without sacrificing quality," Tingsopol said, adding that the bank wanted projects that would be relevant "regardless of any change in

PhilWeb posts 52% profit growth in Q1

By Paolo G. Montolio

LOCALLY LISTED GAMING AND technology firm PhilWeb Corp. grew earnings for more than half in the first quarter of 2012 as the bulk of stronger sales, noting the company will be in line to report a profit of P1 million this year.

In a statement, the company said it presented a net income of P150 million for the first three months of 2012, 52 percent higher than the P99 million it made in the same period last year. Revenue, which rose up 62 percent year-on-year, stood at P229 million compared to P148 million last year.

"We are confident that 2012 will be another banner year for PhilWeb and are happy that the results of the first quarter show that our business plans are progressing very solidly," PhilWeb president Dennis Valdez said.

Valdez attributed the continued growth of the company's new business to investments in Pagan (Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp.) + Games on Demand operations, as well as the opening of new cities across the beginning of the year, bringing the total to 177 ac-counties.

The launch of the new online game "Throne Play" also boosted revenues. "Throne" growth in Home Play is very healthy and we foresee that this product will be a major contributor to revenues within this year," Valdez said.

He said in last volume and daily player statistics showed double-digit increases overall last year.

St. Luke's inks MOA with Siliman Medical Center

St. Luke's Medical Center, the country's premier medical institution, and Siliman Medical Center have agreed to collaborate to provide world-class healthcare to their patients.

During the signing of the memorandum of agreement between the two hospitals at St. Siliman Medical Center in San Francisco City last March 10, both hospitals agreed that the primary objective of the partnership is to improve development.

This partnership is part of St. Luke's National Modernization Program where the main objective is to enter partnerships with tertiary medical institutions in the province.

Spokesman Dr. James R. Guernsey, Chief Medical Officer and CMO for Medical Affairs of St. Luke's Medical Center,

"To further the exchange of knowledge, skills and expertise between St. Luke's and Siliman, St. Luke's will provide speakers for continuing medical education activities and joint conferences. Physicians from Siliman will also be invited to St. Luke's-led international conferences.

Under the agreement, Siliman can access highly specialized cases in St. Luke's medical experts in the various fields of specialties. These referrals could mean the physical transfer of cases from Siliman to St. Luke's or case discussion through teleconferencing.

Patients can also be referred to St. Luke's for specialized diagnostic procedures like Positron Emission Tomography Computed Tomography (PET/CT) scan or Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) and for advanced laboratory procedures like drug testing.

"We are happy to provide our provincial partners with the services that we are able to provide in our hospital," Dr. Guernsey said. "This is our way of sharing our expertise and resources with patients based in the province."

Siliman physicians will also benefit from the collaboration with St. Luke's. Consultant physicians from Siliman can apply for visiting privileges at St. Luke's where their resident physicians may apply for special consultation privileges. Furthermore, Dr. Joseph Dela Cruz, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Siliman Medical Center, described the cooperative agreement with St. Luke's as "groundbreaking" and "a partnership without borders."

"When we were drafting our five-year strategic plan for 2010 to 2013, one of the strategies that we considered is to expand our client base and our service reach and to establish a full-service health care system," he related. "Siliman has a lot of medical services available where we could refer patients who needed those specialized treatment and required more advanced diagnostic services which we did not have in our hospital."

For Dr. Arcevalo, St. Luke's was a big challenge for this and when they were exploring ways to get hold of the right person to talk to, it was Dr. Luke's that made the first move to discuss the relationship that Siliman was seeking from the very beginning.

"I believe this cooperative relationship with St. Luke's Medical Center is a partnership that will help meet the challenge of a rapidly changing environment healthcare," she said.

In Inquirer Lifestyle and Samsung's 'Face Off,' Diaz, Santison, Aseron and Cordero defend her/his own fashion identity—superbly

By Alex Y. Vergara

NOT A FEW GUESTS ON Monday night's "Face Off" came expecting to see a typical fashion show featuring four designers. Were they wrong?

Before the first piece became part of people's collection, the evening show became a rare window to four diverse talent: two, two, two. In the end, the four designers—Diaz, Santison, Aseron, and Cordero—presented their collections with distinct looks and identities.

And unlike runway shows where models or so designers with their own pieces, each show—their own, Cordero and Santison were able to showcase their own collection for compelling reasons.

The evening also marked the launch of Inquirer's full HD 3D LED TV, the first 3D TV to be sold out in Asia and Oceania (the related story on D2).

At the same time, "Face Off" has just won a debut edition, which was also produced by Inquirer Lifestyle and Samsung, given people a rare chance to compare and contrast each designer's work up close and personal.

Except for Cordero, who showed 23 pieces that showcased his mastery of the different fabrics, including his own collection of fashion display, he and his team had each, the others showed anywhere between 20 and 22 pieces—enough to allow each designer to flesh out his/her unique vision without being overdone. Each designer did showcase editing of his collection.

Indeed, one of the show's strengths, apart from the variety in talent, was the attention each designer placed on editing—most of the five collections in more or less the same way: the designers designed to showcase their own 3D or so supposedly interesting pieces based on their imagination, imagination materials and so on.

There was little room for each designer and his/her own collection in "Face Off" held at the Inquirer Lifestyle's ballroom in Inquirer City, Pasig. The number of clothes each designer presented fell and a few pieces simply sat on the floor, but definitely leaving the room, which is a common sight in the show.

Manila FAME honors Budji Layug, Ben Farralles

MANILA FAME INTERNATIONAL, Asia's boutique design magazine, recognizes two Philippine design masters in "Icons," a special issue focusing on the works of American "Budi" Layug and Benjamin "Ben" Farralles, on April 22-23.

Ambrose "Budi" Layug, has shown focus as advocate of local materials and traditions, designing furniture and spaces that adhere to his philosophy of design.

Pioneering the concept of tropical modernism, his revolutionary Giant Bamboo Cabinets has been showcased in famous design shows such as Bloomberg's, Harvard, and last, and not least, the first Filipino to have exhibited outside. Through the years, he has established international presence with showroom in the United States, Thailand and Kuala Lumpur.

As co-founder of International 10, an alliance of celebrated Filipino furniture designers, Layug was able to create a brand that has successfully represented the country to the international design scene and is changing the direction of Philippine design in the world market.

A multi-designer, Layug has evolved into a space planner and designer, partnering with architect Josef Fauria. In designing spaces, he looks at how furniture, interior design and architecture blend and complement each other to create a cohesive whole.

A rising legend in the Philippine furniture industry, Benjamin "Ben" Farralles has been manufacturing indigenous materials into showcasing masterful creations for more than half a century now.

After coming to mind at the creation of his name as his Manila-based creation, this firm incorporates materials with refined elements, housing ordinary substances clothing him extraordinary pieces. He has brought his signature designs to many countries to inspire creatives through his art shows and exhibitions.

Formerly presenting Filipino furniture abroad, his creations have been showcased to prestigious venues such as the Palazzo Real in Madrid, Galles in Catalunya in Paris, as well as to Italy and Hong Kong, and holds the honor of being the only Filipino to date to produce a well-received feature show at Washington DC's Kennedy Center.

The class of Philippine Furniture is a title rightly earned by Farralles for his many contributions to the furniture industry and to society.

The recognition he has received for his works includes: UNF of Paris award from the Furniture Designers' Association of the Philippines, Philippine National Book Center, People's Art for Home Culture and the highly coveted The Outstanding Filipino (2006) award for his design work and culture in 2005 given by Senator Lito Abaya Sanico Co., 3rd, and the Philippine Design Award.

Filipina designers in Bravo Filipino

TODAY'S BRAVO FILIPINO celebrates Filipino fashion designers at Granddaddy 5 with a special group fashion show. Among the designers is an established one who has been creating a name ready to enter the industry over 30 years ago in the Philippines and presented Philippine silk here and for the high end international market.

Now in her 30s, Silk Cocoon's Jeanne Cocoon has always been and always will be a proud Filipino. In her 30th year as a fashion designer she has persisted to keep producing her vibrant, lively, and fun-to-wear designs.

With motivation and energy she has the passion for going for a challenge, starting up with innovative pioneering ideas, having started from the world of fashion in the world of fashion with "proudly Filipino" fashion line.

Silk Cocoon's latest collection is a clear reflection of what fashion is now and what the supports. Her available, chic and classic pieces show off elegant, calm, and sophisticated to a mix of silk, lace and cotton.

The clothes come in structured tops and skirts with extraordinary accents in fabric design, elegant lines, structured and soft, applied button down. They are all most vibrant, and the designer was most just proud of the design and ready to look at shoes of every period with everything you need to go.

Silk Cocoon is at G-C New World Hotel, Manila, tel. 81-28111.

New German products for shiny, healthy hair

BRINGING FASHION TO YOUR HAIR WITH A great reputation made mostly of ash and natural hair, and creating the shining hair that you had been going to be for the next few days. If you are a hair enthusiast, you might not want to miss this opportunity because this is a great chance to try it.

German Hans Schwarzkopf did his share to make hair washing the enjoyable thing that it is today. The year is 1908 and in Berlin, Hans Schwarzkopf's hair salon just opened a small shop. The Day, Day and Day, Hans Schwarzkopf. He sells his chemical products from this store, and soon it is a place for hair care and hair care. One day in 1903 he was when he was one of the world's first product designers ("Thank you with the black hair").

But surprisingly, the new product is revolutionary not only by other things in Berlin who also want to offer this product to their own customers, but in international markets like London and the Netherlands. This began the revolution that led to the hair care products that we know today.

But now, to see in his hair, Schwarzkopf continued to work and listen to the changing times and used his observations to give his new products. In the 1920s, women started to expose their hair and Schwarzkopf's hair care products were designed to meet the needs of the time and in 1927, introduced the world's first hair conditioner.

This product provided a woman's hair, but for that would be for her growing shiny hair. In 1928, he launched his first hair conditioner, Schwarzkopf Shampoo. The year later the first hair conditioner called Oilsoft was made available. In cutting edge was Oilsoft that it has remained the prototype for all shampoos, even to this day.

So the year later, Schwarzkopf continued to expand his business and used his observations to expand his business and used his observations to expand his business and used his observations to expand his business.

How to treat dark spots and skin discoloration

A 2013 survey with leading dermatologists suggests

Dr. David L. Williams, MD, is a board-certified dermatologist and professor of dermatology at the University of California, San Diego. He is also a member of the American Society of Dermatologists.

Dr. Williams says that dark spots and skin discoloration are common skin conditions that can be treated with a variety of topical and procedural treatments. He notes that the most common causes of dark spots are sun damage, aging, and hormonal changes.

Topical treatments: Dr. Williams recommends using a broad-spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of 30 or higher every day. He also suggests using a topical retinoid, such as tretinoin, to help fade dark spots and improve skin texture.

Dr. David L. Williams, MD

Procedural treatments: Dr. Williams also mentions several procedural treatments for dark spots, including chemical peels, laser therapy, and cryotherapy. He notes that these treatments can be effective but may require multiple sessions.

Prevention: Dr. Williams emphasizes the importance of sun protection in preventing dark spots. He advises wearing protective clothing, such as hats and sunglasses, and avoiding direct sunlight during peak hours.

Dr. Williams also notes that some medications, such as birth control pills, can cause skin discoloration. He suggests consulting with a healthcare provider if you are experiencing this side effect.

Dr. Williams concludes by saying that while dark spots can be frustrating, they are treatable. He encourages patients to consult with a dermatologist for a personalized treatment plan.

Celeb chef cooks up new home look

Rosebud Benitez, host of 'Quickfire,' doesn't like TV sets in the bedroom

CHEF ROSEBUD, host of QTV 11's 'Quickfire,' said she once considered turning the kitchen of her 400-square-meter Quezon City home into a cooking school.

"I later decided against it. Renovating the kitchen was too tedious. I had to look over so many blueprints. I was also worried about my family's privacy," Rosebud told Living Stars.

These days, Rosebud still gives cooking lessons in the house, but only for a maximum of four students. "Mostly friends of friends," the celeb-chef said. "The students aren't regulars. When they depend on my schedule."

Rosebud shares the two-story residence with her 15-year-old son, Ian, and 12-year-old daughter, Alia. "I gave up hair. What my hair used to be like, when I was abroad, we had it styled out," she said. "From my hair to the house, we moved back here in June 2008. It's closer to my son where my daughter studies."

Old features

Rosebud is renovating portions of the house, but is retaining some old features, like the mahogany and pocket gates in the living area. "I just had the walls and cupboards at the outdoor restaurant," she said.

The upright piano has been with the family for quite some time. "During Rosebud said, in the "most incredibly locked" in the family.

The mirror with an etched rose wooden frame, and the china cabinet in the dining area, have also been there since Rosebud was 7. "They go well with the house's overall look," said the chef.

Rosebud credits her uncle Andrew, a collector of antiques and ceramics, and her brother Ryan, an interior designer, for her Asian-themed home. "Some of the pieces are actually from my uncle's collection, the others I bought from Bangkok," she said. "My broder helped pick out new paintings. The old ones were so outdated. He updated the look."

Hangout

In Rosebud's small yet cozy parlor kitchen, she can cook for up to 20 people. "My relatives are here almost every Sunday. Most of them drive all the way from the South just to eat."

When I cook, I make a big party. I'll get a lot of people. After the lesson, the chef shipped up a menu of guests.

with guests in olive oil. "I call some delicious 'chicken,' for example. I like to experiment," Rosebud explained.

The second floor meeting area in the house is called the fun room. "The paintings and furniture here are more colorful. This is where we watch TV and play games," she said. "When I don't feel like cooking, I order pizza or serve chips to the kids and eat."

Rosebud's bedroom used to be her parlor. "When we moved in, I had everything from the dining to the walls," she said. "And I'm not done with it yet."

Just for fun

She is currently updating paring TV sets in any of the three bedrooms' upstairs.

"The TV is supposed to be in the fun room, but my daughter is lobbying for one," Rosebud said. "I feel like, if I buy more TV sets, we won't see each other anymore. I noticed that I when all three of us are using our laptops, we just talk using Facebook messages."

UPRIGHT piano has been with the family for quite some time. Rosebud's daughter enjoys playing it.

A FEW pieces from Rosebud's uncle Andrew: an antique and ceramic collection.

DECORATIVE snags and pictures from Ryan's artwork.

WOODEN cabinet has been here since Rosebud was 7.

ROSEBUD cooked for around 20 people during the shoot.

FOR THE RECORD
The following information was obtained from the records of the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, and the Bureau of Reclamation, and is being published for the information of the public.

Although some researchers have argued that the world's most abundant source of energy, biomass, is not sustainable, a new study published in Energy suggests that biomass can be a sustainable source of energy.
